

Instructor: ..... Date: .....

Learner: ..... Regional Branch: .....

Program: ..... Center: .....

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

You are what you eat!

Learning Outcome

Describe routines and regular activities in a wider range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you have any particular eating habits?
- Are you vegetarian?
- Do you try to buy local products? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about family life and eating habits.
- I can talk about how something happens or how someone behaves.
- I can compare two things or people and describe the quality of an object or a person.

Let's Explore!

Sally writes about how gender issues are related to food and cooking. Do you agree with her?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

You are what you eat! I have consistently been an advocate of home cooked meals -- especially if they are prepared by somebody else. But who is that somebody else? Studies have repeatedly demonstrated that women cook more frequently than men, even in the modern family. 42% of men spend time in the kitchen, compared to 84% of women.

Have you ever seen a cookbook called something like Great Recipes for Busy Moms? The reality is that cooking takes time. When you want to buy local products, you need to plan carefully. If you have vegetarians in the family, you need to do research.

The world of food is seriously dealing with some issues of sexism. Celebrity chefs you regularly see on television tend to be male. They prepare exotic dishes with fancy sauces. It looks great on television, but women have less time to prepare that way at home. Men are better at selling supplements and vitamins, but women are the ones usually putting food on the table at home, three meals a day.

Let's Practice!

Let's look at how Sally expresses the way things happen in her article.

Instructions: Fill in the blanks with words from the list: carefully - consistently - regularly - seriously - repeatedly.

1. I have _____ been an advocate of home cooked meals.
2. Studies have _____ demonstrated that women cook more frequently than men.
3. When you want to buy local products, you need to plan _____.
4. The world of food is _____ dealing with some issues of sexism.
5. Celebrity chefs you _____ see on television tend to be male.

Let's Practice!

In her article, Sally talks about eating local products*. Do you agree?

*Many people believe that eating "local products" (grown or raised close to where you live) is better for the environment.

Instructions: Read the article again. Read the sentences below. Complete them with the correct word or expression as it appears in the article.

1. The reality is that _____ takes time.
2. When you want to buy _____, you need to plan carefully.
3. If you have _____ in the family, you need to do research.
4. Celebrity chefs prepare exotic dishes with _____.
5. Men are better at selling _____ and vitamins.

Extension Activity

Create a meal menu using only products.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- With a partner, make a list of food products that are grown or raised close to where you live.
- If you are not sure about a food product, go online find out.
- Create a complete meal with an appetizer, main dish and dessert using only local products.
- Describe your menu to make it sound very good.
- Read your menu to your partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I discuss local products.

☐ ☐

I create a menu.

☐ ☐

I read the menu to my partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- you are what you eat (expression): it's important to eat good food
e.g. I always go by the saying, you are what you eat!
- home cooked (adjective): food that is made in a house, not a restaurant
e.g. I have consistently been an advocate of home cooked meals.
- cooking (noun): the action of preparing food
e.g. The reality is that cooking takes time.
- recipe (noun): instructions you follow to prepare a meal
e.g. Have you ever seen a cookbook called something like Great Recipes for Busy Moms?
- supplements (noun): food products you take to increase nutrition e.g. Men are usually the ones selling supplements.
- vitamins (noun): pills you take to help your body resist sickness
e.g. Do you take vitamins regularly?
- consistently (adverb): regularly; repeatedly; on a regular basis
e.g. I have consistently been an advocate of home cooked meals.
- carefully (adverb): in a way that avoids errors
e.g. When you want to buy local products, you need to plan carefully.

Learning Points

Adverbs of Manner

If we want to describe how something is done, we can use adverbs of manner.

Adverbs of manner are usually found in different types of tenses.

Present continuous.

- The world of food is seriously dealing with some issues of sexism.

Present perfect.

- I have consistently been an advocate of home cooked meals.

Simple present.

- Celebrity chefs you regularly see on television tend to be male.

After infinitives.

- You need to plan carefully.

It is also possible to find more than one adverb in a sentences, and sometimes after more.

- Studies have repeatedly demonstrated that women cook more frequently than men, even in the modern family.

Don't forget that fast, hard, well and straight are both adjectives and adverbs and they do not change when they become adverbs. Remember that you can form an adverb from an adjective by adding -ly.

| Adjective  | Adverb       |
|------------|--------------|
| consistent | consistently |
| serious    | seriously    |
| endless    | endlessly    |
| careful    | carefully    |
| regular    | regularly    |

Learning Points

Superlatives and Comparatives

When using superlatives, it is important to know if an adjective is long or short. Adjectives are long when they have more than one syllable in pronunciation.

Examples:

- Cooking is more common in modern families.
- Men and women are cooking more exotic dishes.
- Usually men cook the most delicious dishes at home.

When you have a one-syllable adjective in pronunciation, or you have a two-syllable adjective in pronunciation whose final letter is -y, then you have a short adjective.

Examples:

- Families are trying to prepare healthier dishes at home.
- Learning to cook is a lot easier these days.
- Celebrity chefs prepare the fanciest plates.

You can use comparatives with adverbs of manner to make more emphasis in the way the action is done.

Examples:

- Women cook more frequently than men.
- When you want to buy local products, you need to plan more carefully.

