

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

In my family ...

Learning Outcome

Describe routines and regular activities in a wider range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- In general, do you think mothers or fathers spend more time with their children?
- Who spends the most time with children in your family?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about behavior and personality.
- I can compare two things or people and describe the quality of an object or a person.
- I can talk about how something happens or how someone behaves.

Let's Explore!

Sally writes another article about the amount of time men and women spend with their children per day.

* The preposition "per" means for each.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Are men and women raising their children equally? According to research, the answer is clearly no.

A study to find out how to help children become better students was repeated similarly in eleven countries around the world. The most interesting part of the study was about how much time fathers spend with their children.

Surprisingly, fathers spend an average of less than one hour per day with their little ones. American fathers were the most generous with their time: they spent forty-two minutes on average. Fathers in Hong Kong spent less time: only six minutes.

Mothers, no matter which culture they come from, spend more time with their children, even when they work outside the home. American mothers spent the most time with their children, almost 11 hours. German and Nigerian women lovingly cared for their children an average of 10 hours per day. Belgian mothers spent the least amount of time (5.2 hours a day).

Have things dramatically changed since this study was conducted? Let me know what you think!

Let's Practice!

What does the research say?

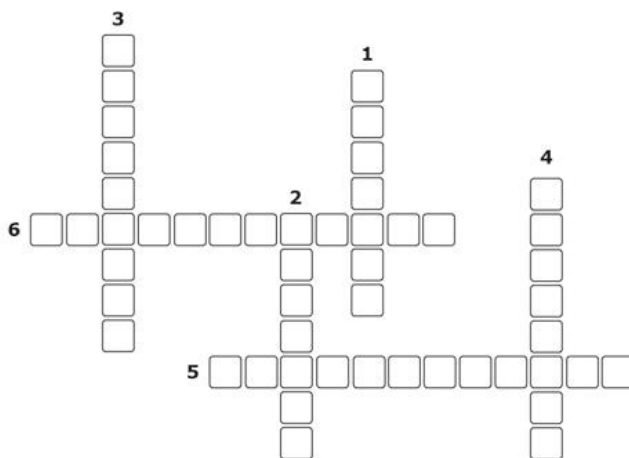

Instructions: Complete the crossword. Use the adverb form of these adjectives: similar - surprising - dramatic - loving - equal - clear.

DOWN

1. Are men and women raising their children _____?
2. According to research, the answer is _____ no.
3. A study to find out how to help children become better students was repeated _____ in 11 countries around the world.
4. German and Nigerian women _____ cared for their children an average of 10 hours per day.

ACROSS

5. _____, fathers spend an average of one hour per day with their little ones.
6. Have things dramatically changed _____ since this study was conducted?

Let's Practice!

What did Sally explain in her article?

Instructions: Fill in the blanks with words from the list: little ones - culture - per - average - time - study - outside the home - spend - mothers.

A _____ to find out how to help children become better students was done in eleven countries around the world. Fathers _____ an _____ of less than one hour _____ day with their _____. _____, no matter which _____ they come from, spend the most _____ with their children, even when they work _____.

Extension Activity

Do a survey about household roles in the family.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Make a list of 6 questions you want to find out about other people's families. For example: Who takes care of children? Who works outside the home?
- Ask 10 people your questions.
- Write down the results of your survey.
- Design a graph, such as a bar graph, to display your results.
- Present your graph to the class.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write a list of questions.

☐ ☐

I talk to 10 people about their family.

☐ ☐

I design a graph.

☐ ☐

I present the graph to the class.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to raise (verb): to care for children from babies until they become adults
e.g. Are men and women raising their children equally?
- research (noun): the collection of academic studies on a topic e.g. According to research, men do not spend as much time with their children.
- study (noun): an investigation on a topic; a piece of research e.g. The study was about how much time fathers spend with their children.
- spend (verb): to be with a person during a period of time
e.g. The most interesting thing was about how much time fathers spend with their children.
- average (noun): the mathematical result of adding up the total amount divided by the number of items e.g. Fathers spend an average of less than one hour per day with their children.
- little ones (expression): children
e.g. Fathers spend an average of less than one hour per day with their little ones.
- outside the home (expression): at a workplace (an office, clinic, school, etc.)
e.g. Mothers spend more time with their children, even when they work outside the home.

Learning Points

Adverbs of Manner

Adverbs of manner tell us how something happens. They are usually placed either after the main verb or after the object. Additionally, adverbs of manner can be found in past, present, and future tenses as well as in questions and affirmative and negative sentences.

Example:

- Are men and women raising their children equally?
 - According to research, the answer is clearly no.
 - Surprisingly, fathers spend an average of less than one hour per day with their little ones.
- Have things dramatically changed since this study was conducted?*

Many adverbs are formed by adding -ly to an adjective:

Examples:

Equal--->equally

Surprising--->Surprisingly

The words fast, hard, well and straight are exceptions. They are both adjectives and adverbs.

Adjective	Adverb
equal	equally
loving	lovingly
dramatic	dramatically
surprise	surprisingly
clear	clearly

Learning Points

Superlatives and Comparatives

We use comparatives and superlatives when we want to compare items based on a specific characteristic (adjective).

We can also use these forms when we talk about comparison of quantity. Then the expressions are used with nouns.

For the comparative, we use the expression more:

- Mothers spend more time with their children; Nigerian women lovingly cared for their children more hours per day.

When we compare in terms of a lower degree, we use the expression less:

- Fathers spend less time with their children; there's less family time in the city.

For the superlative, we use the expression the most:

- American mothers spent the most time with their children; American fathers were the most generous with their time.

When an item represents the lowest degree, we use the expression the least:

- Nigerian parents spend the least time with their children.

Examples:

- I spend the most time with my family.
- Families have less children these days.
- Parents spend more time at work nowadays.
- The study revealed the least expected results.

